SON MINH PHUC

As a Frontend Developer, I have gained substantial experience in developing professional and user-friendly websites and web applications. I am proficient in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript, and have worked with frameworks like React and Angular. Although I am not an expert, I have completed several projects that required me to prioritize user experience and performance optimization. I have worked both independently and as part of a team in my previous roles, which has helped me develop strong communication and collaboration skills. I am always eager to learn and passionate about new technologies, making me a great fit for any organization looking for a skilled and enthusiastic Frontend Developer.
